Valley Arts Custom Pro Series

Valley Arts was founded in Hollywood in the early 1970s by guitarists Mike McGuire and Al Carness. Through retail, repair, teaching and custom manufacturing services, they built a clientele that included virtually every important guitarist in Los Angeles. Valley Arts guitars are hand-crafted to your personal specifications, using only the finest materials available. Available in a wide array of custom finish colors.

The Valley Arts Custom Pro is hand-crafted to your personal specifications, using only the finest materials available. Painstaking attention to detail in every phase of construction allows for an instrument of unparalleled beauty and playability.

The hard tail bridge is one of numerous options that makes the Valley Arts Custom Pro a truly custom guitar.

The 7/8-size body, a Valley Arts innovation, offers greater playing comfort with a lighter body and a shorter, 24.75-inch scale length.

When Nashville master session king Brent Mason retired his famous customized studio guitar, he replaced it with a replica made by Valley Arts. Like Brent's personal guitar, the new Brent Mason Signature from Valley Arts is modeled on his original instrument, with the look, the feel and the sound that has enhanced thousands of recordings. Available colors: Matte Pewter

All of the elements that have made Valley Arts guitars the first choice of professional musicians are featured in the Custom Pro Bass. Hand-crafted attention to detail, top quality hardware and electronics, and a full palette of finishes make every Custom Pro Bass an instrument of unparalleled beauty and performance.
